

ATP Newsletter, March 2022

<http://www.atp.lu.se/Newsletter>

Staff news

Daqu Zhang starts as a PhD student (supervisor: Patrik Edén)
Albertas Dvirnas starts as a Postdoc scholar working with Tobias Ambjörnsson
Mayo Colmenares is back for three months to work with Michiel Lambrechts
Eero Vaher becomes a maintainer of the 'astropy.coordinates' sub-package

Regular seminar schedules

Astronomy – <http://www.astro.lu.se/Seminars/>
THEP – <http://particle.thep.lu.se/Seminars/>
CBBP – <https://www.atp.lu.se/cbbp/cbbp-seminars>

Important dates and events

Season two of the Lund Observatory podcast 'The Meridian' will consist of seven episodes and be released on Fridays in March and April: <https://www.astro.lu.se/TheMeridian>
14–18 NMT days, including talks by many department members
23–24 The Svenska Rymdforskarens Samarbetsgrupp (SRS) annual meeting will be held in Lundmarksalen. Register at <https://www.astro.lu.se/SRS2022>

Absences, trips and other travel

4 Paul McMillan on evaluation committee for thesis defence of Amalie Stokholm (Aarhus University)
4–6 Rebecca Forsberg main speaker at the 30-year jubilee of Amatörastronomer i Värmland, Lysvik
14 Diane Feuillet gives lecture to Polhemskolan astronomy society
15 Jens Hoeijmakers gives seminar in Cambridge, UK
20–25 Nils Ryde, Thomas Bensby, and Rebecca Forsberg give talks at the Sesto meeting 'Abundance gradients to trace galaxy formation and evolution' in Sexten, Italy
24–25 Anders Johansen gives the Munich Joint Astronomy Colloquium
28–30 Nils Ryde attends MOONS meeting in Firenze
30 David Hobbs attends a detector development meeting in Cambridge

Editor: Ross Church (ross@astro.lu.se). Deadline: 17.00 on the last day of the previous month.